Description
1920s+ Press-Cut small clear glass bedroom lamp.

Press cut is the term used for glassware that has both the pressing process and the cutting process used to create a neat item. In this case...the pressing is considered very sharp and could be confused quite easily for a cutting process.

The cutting process itself is on the shade of the light. The flower and some surrounding elements have been hand wheel cut for a very nice accent indeed.

A smaller lamp using our exclusive LED bulb, for which, replacements are easily available. We will include your first one with the light.

Re-wired in our UL shop using the original re-built socket that has a turn knob.

Measurements: The Overall sconce height is 13 1/2”. The maximum width (shade) is 6”.
