Description
No, it’s not by Donald Deskey! This American art deco floor lamp is from the 1930’s and shares the top superstructure with Deskey’s famous floor lamp. This lamp starts off with a domed chrome base with two chrome bars on a raised black disc. An ebonized ball is held in place with two chrome mounts. A black enameled shaft supports the aforementioned superstructure from which is suspended the original textured shade. The lamp has been rewired and is in excellent original condition and is 58 1/2" tall.
